H-Bomb Bluestreak

Medium Missile To Defend U.K.

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain announced plans Tuesday to go ahead with development of a 2,500-mile rocket as the weapon best suited to her defence needs.

It is the Bluestreak, a guided missile capable of delivering a hydrogen warhead. It can be fired from underground emplacements. There have been reports that it may be test-fired before the end of this year.

The report noted satisfactory progress in the development of flying bombs to be released from high-flying aircraft outside the range of enemy anti-aircraft defence systems.

The defence of Britain's own "deterrent bases" would be performed increasingly by ground-to-air missiles, of which the British-built Bloodhound Ramjet was the most outstanding.

A supersonic, low-flying, nuclear-bomb-carrying plane, the TSR-2, was being developed for army support and other tactical operations. This plane would be able to carry air-to-air missiles.

When Lifting 70 Pounds

Half-Ton Pressure On Stooped Back

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI) — A scientist has figured out that when you bend over and lift 70 pounds from the floor, the pressure on your lower spine amounts to 1,050 pounds. But if you stoop without bending your back and lift the same weight, the pressure on the spine is only 220 pounds.

What this adds up to is that when weight-lifting, it is better to bend the knees than bend the back, according to Dr. Peter R. Davis, an authority on human anatomy and how it works. It means, he said, that the more bent the trunk when weight-lifting, the more chance of injury.

Davis has been watching muscled skeletons lifting weights, from suitcases to sacks of potatoes. He finally concluded "that people seem to lift their burdens in almost as many ways as there are burdens to be lifted."

When weights are lifted with the trunk erect, the weight is transferred from the forearm muscles to the upper arm bones. From there it is moved to the chest girdle, and then to the middle and lower vertebrae of the spine.

Only Way to Sell Wurlitzers

Juke Sales Jump To Hoods' Tune

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A former vice-president of the Wurlitzer Co. said Tuesday that business-as-usual in the juke box business includes tie-ins with racketeers and violence as a matter of survival.

Milton Hammergren of Minneapolis told the Senate rackets committee: "We didn't like it but we still had to sell juke boxes."

Hammergren gave the committee a police blotter tour of the United States as he described the persons and methods used to sell juke boxes during the 10 years he headed the big company's sales force.

The committee also got a demonstration of coin-operated gambling and amusement machines, ranging from the once-familiar "one-armed bandit" slot machines to modern five-ball "bingo" pinballs.

Rufus King, a former Kefauver committee investigator, showed how to adjust the payoff on a slot machine from 20 to 80 per cent.

Hammergren, who left Wurlitzer in 1949, took over as sales manager from Homer E. Capehart, now a Republican U.S. senator from Indiana.

Capehart, a new member of the rackets committee, was absent, but he told newsmen in Indiana he couldn't understand why his name was brought up — "Unless it is dirty pool by young (committee counsel Robert F.) Kennedy." He also complained that he wasn't notified about the juke box hearings.

Hammergren gave a city-by-city account of how Wurlitzer had to deal with gangsters on terms dictated by leading hoodlums in order to sell the juke boxes.

Hammergren conceded that violence was a part of the juke box business. Under questioning, he admitted that there had been "killings" but said he knew only of one—the shooting of one Leahn "Red" Kelly, in Joliet, Ill.

Food Men Will Seek New Tariff

A submission is being prepared for presentation to Finance Minister Donald Fleming asking for an import tariff on American frozen fruits and vegetables.

Canadian Food Processors' Association convention delegates at the Empress Hotel were told date of the presentation has not been set.

L. D. Clark of Montreal, newly-elected president of the group, said in his tariff report that all committees will receive copies of the submission for comment before the final brief is made.

Report of the submission, during the convention's second day, followed remarks Monday that Canada's 50,000 commercial growers and their investments need protection from American dumping surpluses on the Canadian market.

MOON DUST

Some scientists believe the dust layer on the moon is only inches deep; others think it may go down as far as five miles.

A LOVELIER YOU

By Mary Sue Miller

TEST OF GRACE. Try this experiment before a mirror: 1. Stand with feet together, weight on heels. Then fold arms on chest. 2. Pull up tall, tuck heel of one foot into instep of other foot and center weight on balls of back foot. Let arms fall relaxed at sides.

Which stance looks more graceful? The second, of course, is not only the more willowy, but for the mature woman it is also more youthful. Just so, all your gestures make a difference in your looks. To appear your best, remember these tips on carriage:

Don't plop into a chair. By using your knees as levers, ease down. Don't hoist yourself out of a chair with your hands. Let the knees do this work, too. When walking, don't waddle or mince. A glide is what you're after and you get it by moving the feet on two close parallel lines and pointing the toes straight ahead.

Don't clatter up and down stairs. You won't, if you keep the knees relaxed—never let them lock—and place the flat of your foot lightly on the tread. Don't flop over to pick up objects from the floor. A deep-knee bend is the better action.

CLUES TO GOOD CARRIAGE

For a lovelier figure, walk with the grace that nature intended! To check or improve on your ability, send for "Clues To Good Carriage," my leaflet giving complete instructions on shoes, stockings and walking techniques that enhance both carriage and legline. Write to me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope, and five cents in coin.

New Colwood Fair Aims at 1960 Start

An application for a Class B fair has been made by B.C. Fairs Association for Colwood.

President Arthur H. Cox, re-elected Monday for a second term, said the fair will not be held this year, but will probably be a seven-day exhibition in 1960.

He denied a report that the association application calls for a race track and a Class A rating.

The association has a 50-year lease on the old 140-acre Colwood army camp bounded by Wilfert Road, the Old Island Highway and Belmont Road.

Other officers elected were George Harknett, first vice-president; W. S. Norrington, second vice-president; H. R. Milburn, third vice-president, and A. G. Hill, secretary.

Executive members are J. G. Bremner, S. R. Bowden and A. Brown. Race committee members are H. R. Milburn, K. R. Darbyshire and Mr. Harknett.

$1,500,000 Too Little Say Servants

Victoria branch, B.C. Government Employees' Association believes Premier W. A. C. Bennett's $1,500,000 allotment for civil service wage increases is "not half enough."

At a closed meeting Monday they passed a resolution backing any attempts by their provincial executive to have the allotment increased.

More than 60 members attending the meeting expressed annoyance and dissatisfaction.

Radical Experiment

Prisoners Stage Prison Drama

VANCOUVER (CP)—In a radical penal experiment, 31, inmates of Haney Correctional Institute made a trip recently to RCAF Station Eburne on Sea Island.

Accompanied by five guards and a sergeant, the men, ranging in age from 18 to 40 years produced and presented "Stalag 17," a well-known comedy of life in the infamous Second World War German prison camp.

NO ACTRESSES

"But it wasn't chosen because of its prison setting," said Haney's warden, John Braithwaite. "It was picked mainly because it had no female parts."

Behind a faded curtain, the 31 men changed from their fawn shirts and denims into old air force uniforms and—ironically—guards' uniforms.

PAROLE BOARD THERE

When the curtain was pulled back, they played to an audience of 300, including members of the British Columbia parole board.

"We're not thinking of going on tour or anything," Warden Braithwaite explained. "But in a modest way we've set our sights on entering a drama festival sometime in the future."

Actors in Urgent Search

'Baboonery' in Texas Helps Heart Research

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) —Baboons frolic here in a transplanted African setting.

Some scamper up the wire of the fenced enclosure. One swings lazily in a suspended auto tire. Two chatter over a feast of fruit. A mother nurses a tiny youngster. Several peer from caves or holes in a brown rock pile serving as home.

The baboons are the latest actors in the urgent search to find causes and prevention of heart disease.

THEY SUFFER, TOO

Baboons are found to suffer naturally, just as man does, from the fatty plugging and clotting of arteries knows as atherosclerosis, the underlying cause of heart attacks.

They are the only known animal besides man that gets atherosclerosis naturally, and they offer promising new clues to understanding and preventing the killing process.

STEADY SHIPMENT

Baboons are coming from Africa at the rate of about 25 a month to live in the outdoor "baboonery" established by the Southwest Foundation for Research and Education in cooperation with three other institutions.

The animals will also be studied to learn the effects of eating foods similar to human diet, especially food containing animal fats. In natural life, baboons developed the fatty trouble even though they are almost always purely vegetarians.

COMMUNIST TOWER

Warsaw's "Palace of Culture and Science" is a 30-storey structure built by 5,000 Russian technicians and workers.

Early Alberta Vote Likely

EDMONTON (UPI) — Chances of an early provincial election appear stronger following the decisive Social Credit victory in the Olds, Alta., byelection.

Premier Manning has called the success of R. A. MacLeod in Olds an expression of "growing support" in the Social Credit administration.

MacLeod received 3,181 votes to 1,543 for his lone opponent, Liberal Walter Anderson.

The byelection was regarded as the first test of public reaction to the government's recently-announced five-year development plan.

FOREST PROVINCE

Almost 80 per cent of New Brunswick's total 28,000-square-mile area is covered by forests.

Although the Social Credit mandate runs to 1960, the byelection heightened speculation that Manning may call an election this year.
